

LATEX for Linguists

My LATEX-Manual

⟨Your name⟩      ⟨another name⟩

⟨Today's date⟩

Contents

1 Characters, structure and text markup	1
1.1 Characters & Special Characters . . . . .	1
1.2 Sections . . . . .	1
1.2.1 Sections and subsubsection 1 . . . . .	1
1.2.2 Sections and subsubsection 2 . . . . .	1
1.3 Footnotes . . . . .	2
1.4 Text markup . . . . .	2

1 EX 1: Characters, structure and text markup

1.1 Exercise with characters & special characters

The following characters cannot be used directly with LATEX : # $ & _ { } %. You need other commands for the following characters: \, >, <, ^.

1.2 Exercise with sections

This file is designed to allow all workshop participants to try out some of the advantages of LATEX .

1.2.1 Exercise with subsubsection 1

This file is designed to allow all workshop participants to try out some of the advantages of LATEX .

1.2.2 Exercise with subsubsection 2

This file is designed to allow all workshop participants to try out some of the advantages of LATEX .

1.3 Exercise with footnotes

This file is designed to allow all workshop participants<sup>1</sup> to try out some of the advantages of L<sup>A</sup>T<sub>E</sub>X<sup>2</sup>.

1.4 Exercise with text markup

This file is ~~designed~~ to allow all workshop participants to test some of the advantages of L<sup>A</sup>T<sub>E</sub>X .

This file is designed to allow all workshop PARTICIPANTS to test some of the advantages of L<sup>A</sup>T<sub>E</sub>X .

This file is designed to allow all workshop participants to test some of the advantages of L<sup>A</sup>T<sub>E</sub>X .

A page break is achieved with the command \clearpage. You will need this in the next exercises.

---

<sup>1</sup>Here is my first footnote. Here is my first footnote.

<sup>2</sup>Here is another footnote.